

```

Portfolio 2: Conditional Execution
Course: BES10a
Student: Ethan Seth S. Gratuito

print("--- Rotom Dex: Battle Calculator ---") move_type = input("Enter your move's type (Water/Fire/Grass): ") defender_type = input("Enter the defender's type (Water/Fire/Grass): ") raw_power = input("Enter the move's base power (e.g., 40, 90): ") raw_hp = input("Enter the defender's estimated HP: ")

try:
    # Attempt to convert inputs to integers
    power = int(raw_power)
    target_hp = int(raw_hp)

    # Multi-way and nested decisions for type effectiveness
    multiplier = 1.0

    if move_type == "Water":
        if defender_type == "Fire":
            multiplier = 2.0
        elif defender_type == "Grass":
            multiplier = 0.5

    elif move_type == "Fire":
        if defender_type == "Grass":
            multiplier = 2.0
        elif defender_type == "Water":
            multiplier = 0.5

    elif move_type == "Grass":
        if defender_type == "Water":
            multiplier = 2.0
        elif defender_type == "Fire":
            multiplier = 0.5

    # One-way decisions for the UI message
    if multiplier == 2.0:
        print("\nMatchup: It's super effective!")
    elif multiplier == 0.5:
        print("\nMatchup: It's not very effective...")
    else:
        print("\nMatchup: Normal effectiveness.")

    # Calculate damage
    estimated_damage = power * multiplier

```

```
print(f"Estimated Damage: {estimated_damage}")

Multi-way decision-making guide
if estimated_damage >= target_hp:
    print("Rotom Recommendation: GO FOR IT! This is a guaranteed Knock Out!")
    elif estimated_damage >= (target_hp / 2): print("Rotom Recommendation: Good play. This will take at least half their health.")
    else:
        print("Rotom Recommendation: WARNING! Damage is too low.
Consider switching your Pokemon!")

except ValueError:
    # Safety net for non-numeric input print("\nRotom Dex Error: Bzzzt! You must enter numeric values for Power and HP!")

print("\n--- Calculation Complete ---")
```